WASHINGTON, June 12.—Research work by chemists of the department of agriculture extending over a period of more than six years has resulted in the production from corn cobs of low-pelced substitutes for a wide variety of hard rubber and synthetic resin products, as well as a possible new motor fuel supply, according to an announcement by the department. The new discovery, it was further declared, would provide a good market for waste farm by-products, conserve the native supply of methanol (wood alcohol) and the forest products, particularly hardwoods, used in the manufacture of menthanol.
